Fax Server IP

The Fax Server IP is a single line unit that needs to be connected to an analogue internal extension (like most normal fax machines) or an external analogue line. It is the ideal cost effective solution for an average sized organisation which might send and/or receive anything from 10 to 200 faxes per day providing the fax traffic is spread out over time. The Fax Server IP also communicates via LAN. It can handle an unlimited number of users.
